Political PAC Endorses Jackson for Indiana House District 1

Hammond, IN – 04/23/18 – The 10|100 Committee, a bi-partisan political action committee dedicated to supporting candidates of color, recently endorsed Carolyn Jackson (D) for Indiana House District 1.

Jackson was one of four candidates selected out of nearly a dozen who applied for endorsement.

“We seek candidates who are moderate, solution oriented, diverse, constituent focused, and willing to serve all voter’s needs. We are thrilled to support Jackson,” remarked Jamar Cobb-Dennard, Executive Director of the PAC.

“Jackson has experience in the criminal justice field that will be helpful when making policy decisions for communities of color across the state.”

The 10|100 Committee started raising money in 2016 to train and fund the campaigns of candidates of color. The PAC has committed to support Jackson with cash contributions and in-kind campaign support.

“I am running because Hammond and Whiting need a bold progressive voice in the State House that will work to bring positive changes to our community,” said Jackson.

“The work that the 10|100 Committee is doing is also important, and I am thankful for their boost to our campaign.”
